This no-cost workshop is open to health practitioners, advocates, public and private institutions, and community leaders across Sacramento interested in learning how to leverage multi-sector collaboration as a key strategy in advancing community prevention efforts. Participants will:

- Explore opportunities to engage multiple sectors, departments and agencies that are essential to advancing health through community prevention partnerships
- Learn about examples of communities that have been successful in a cross-sectoral approach to promote health, safety and equity
- Analyze collaborative efforts across fields and develop action-oriented strategies using Prevention Institute's Collaboration Multiplier tool

Lunch will be provided. Space is limited, so please RSVP no later than June 3rd.
