Sierra Health Foundation, Father Leo Mulholland, honored for 20 years of service

After 20 years of dedicated service, Father Leo Mulholland is retiring from Sierra Health’s board of directors – a panel he founded in 1984. "He made an enormous impact on the agency," says Dick Kowaleski, board chair. "He knew how to get things done. He was the catalyst for our success." Father Mulholland has been a friend of the staff of Sierra Health Foundation, as well as a trusted advisor, confidante and mentor. "He has been a leader, mentor and friend to us," says Greg Barlow, the foundation’s current executive director.

Organizations chosen for first 2005 Youth Development Institute

The Sacramento Non-Profit Network (SNNP) announces the first statewide Youth Development Institute. This 20-month fellowship program provides an opportunity to develop the skills necessary to implement, manage and evaluate youth development programs. Each fellow will receive $10,000 per year, and participate in two intensive training sessions, held in January and July of 2005.

The Sacramento Region Quality of Life Report

Sierra Health is seeking a program associate

Sierra Health Foundation is seeking an enthusiastic, personable, self-directed individual to join our staff. The program associate will help to guide and sustain our Capacity Building Program, Sierra Health seeks to strengthen up to 10 such organizations chosen for the Sacramento program include: Antelope View & Global Youth Charter School; Big Brothers Big Sisters of El Dorado; The Effort Inc.; Family Service Agency; Friends of the Visually Impaired; Full redirect to top

Organizational assessment funding opportunity

Sierra Health Foundation's ultimate success in generating the healthy development of young people depends, in part, on our capacity to mobilize, and use, available and emerging tools and resources.

We Did It Ourselves: Guidelines for Successful Youth programs

Sierra Health Board of Directors

Sierra Health’s board of directors brings you breaking news, opportunities, tools and resources.

Ann Perez, Grizzly Creek Ranch executive director, for availability and rental fees

Sierra Health's interest in the development of young people depends upon the existence of strong, viable youth-serving organizations. To support that work; experts in the field will participate in the session. The meetings are open to Yuba County agencies first, and then non-Yuba County agencies as well.

Organizations chosen for 2005 Youth Development Institute

Beginning in 2005, the Sacramento Non-Profit Network (SNNP) will initiate the Sacramento Region Quality of Life Report, a project of LEED (Linking Education and Economic Development), YSPN supports the implementation of the Quality of Life Report. Each local report will assess the education and economic development parameters, and highlight positive changes and opportunities available to young people in a region.

A project of LEED (Linking Education and Economic Development), YSPN supports several rounds to promote additional youth development. Three in-state and in-state skills-based training, customized training and technical assistance, policy work, and national meetings are provided to Sacramento Youth Development Services Fellows.

The next networking meeting will be held Feb. 23 from 2–5 p.m. at the Coloma Community Center, 15100 Coloma Blvd., Coloma. The meeting will include a luncheon and an opportunity for capacity building funding. The meetings are open to Yuba County agencies first, and then non-Yuba County agencies as well.

YSPN was formed in 2000 in response to needs identified by Sierra Health and the Sacramento Non-Profit Network. As the primary convening body representing the region’s youth-serving organizations, YSPN provides a forum for networking, capacity building and action planning.

Information and an application for this special opportunity, please contact Jim Gaulin at jgaston@fcusd.k12.ca.us.

We Did It Ourselves: Guidelines for Successful Youth programs

A special weeklong institute will be held March 21-25 in Yuba County. This is in collaboration with the Sacramento Quality of Life Council. The institute will assist organizations to develop strategies, plans, and tools to mobilize their communities.

Michelle Gambone, Ph.D

Founded in 2001, Organizational Assessment is a not-for-profit policy research and technical assistance organization. Michelle Gambone, Ph.D, shared her research findings on positive youth development.

The Sacramento Region Quality of Life Report, a project of LEED (Linking Education and Economic Development), YSPN was formed in 2000 in response to needs identified by Sierra Health and the Sacramento Non-Profit Network. As the primary convening body representing the region’s youth-serving organizations, YSPN provides a forum for networking, capacity building and action planning.

YSPN was formed in 2000 in response to needs identified by Sierra Health and the Sacramento Non-Profit Network. As the primary convening body representing the region’s youth-serving organizations, YSPN provides a forum for networking, capacity building and action planning.

Information and an application for this special opportunity, please contact Jim Gaulin at jgaston@fcusd.k12.ca.us.

We Did It Ourselves: Guidelines for Successful Youth programs

YSPN was formed in 2000 in response to needs identified by Sierra Health and the Sacramento Non-Profit Network. As the primary convening body representing the region’s youth-serving organizations, YSPN provides a forum for networking, capacity building and action planning.

YSPN was formed in 2000 in response to needs identified by Sierra Health and the Sacramento Non-Profit Network. As the primary convening body representing the region’s youth-serving organizations, YSPN provides a forum for networking, capacity building and action planning.

Information and an application for this special opportunity, please contact Jim Gaulin at jgaston@fcusd.k12.ca.us.

We Did It Ourselves: Guidelines for Successful Youth programs

While Sierra Behavioral Health of Yuba County, a Sierra Health affiliate, retains the experience and network for our upcoming youth programs, we will begin focusing efforts in local communities, working with youth, their families and peers to develop strategies, plans, and tools to mobilize their communities.

Grizzly Creek Ranch

A project of LEED (Linking Education and Economic Development), YSPN was formed in 2000 in response to needs identified by Sierra Health and the Sacramento Non-Profit Network. As the primary convening body representing the region’s youth-serving organizations, YSPN provides a forum for networking, capacity building and action planning.

YSPN was formed in 2000 in response to needs identified by Sierra Health and the Sacramento Non-Profit Network. As the primary convening body representing the region’s youth-serving organizations, YSPN provides a forum for networking, capacity building and action planning.

YSPN was formed in 2000 in response to needs identified by Sierra Health and the Sacramento Non-Profit Network. As the primary convening body representing the region’s youth-serving organizations, YSPN provides a forum for networking, capacity building and action planning.